

ACADEMIC ADVISING

Texas A&M University-San Antonio places an emphasis on developing a one-on-one individual academic relationship between each student and an academic advisor. This relationship is essential when a student participates in the academic planning process.

A student who is unsure of a major should discuss their interests and goals with an academic advisor, or should visit Career Services to engage in career exploration and interest assessment activities.